Johnson in apparent violation of drinking water standards, says State Board of Health

BY DENA BISNETTE

Johnson Utilities, Inc., the Vicksburg-based, owner of three Hancock-west, Harrison counties water systems, is facing seven lawsuits alleging failure to meet state drinking water standards. Local waterworks involved include those in Clermont Harbor, Jourdan River Shores and Pass Christian Isles, according to State Board of Health spokesperson Nancy Kay Sullivan.

The board and its director, Dr. Alton Cobb, filed the suits in county chancery courts through the state attorney general's office.

Sullivan said the amount requested in the suits, which involve eight of Johnson's utility systems, totals about $5 million.

"All of the suits involve the same basic complaints as the one against the Clermont Harbor Waterworks," Sullivan said.

"Our charges are that Johnson's systems failed to comply with requirements of and willfully violated certain provisions of the Mississippi Primary Drinking Water Regulations as stated in sections 41-26-1 through 41-26-19 of the Mississippi Code."

Those violations include failure to monitor water quality, failure to notify the board and the public of this violation and submission of samples from other water systems instead of Johnson systems for testing.

"From our first suspicion that something was wrong, we began to collect and monitor samples. Until Monday none of those samples violated U.S. Environmental Protection Agency drinking water standards," Sullivan said.

She explained that two systems, one in Jackson County and one in Forrest County, were found to be so contaminated with coliform bacteria that the board deemed it necessary to inform consumers that water from those systems should be boiled before use.

A coliform count higher than the EPA's one per 100 milliliter standard may indicate the presence of other organisms capable of causing disease.

GAMBLING DEVICES DESTROYED—Four Las Vegas-type slot machines and six gambling devices similar to postage stamp vending machines recently confiscated on a raid at the Bottoms Up Lounge, Bay St. Louis, conducted by joint law enforcement agencies were destroyed on Wednesday. Wielding sledge hammers are Delbert Seay, left, Hancock County Sheriff's investigator, and Mark Ohman, Alcoholic Beverage Commission (ABC) enforcement agent. Brenda G.

Hearndon, 21, 336 Eighth St., Bay St. Louis, who was listed by police as the owner of the lounge, appeared before Justice Court Judge Horatio Frierson, Seay said. She was fined $100 on gambling charges filed by the sheriff's office and $500 on ABC's charges for illegal liquor sales. The raid was conducted by ABC agents, Hancock County sheriff's officers, Harrison County undercover officers, and a Bay police investigator. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

McLeod Park to open '85 season

BY DENA BISNETTE

McLeod Water Park opens its 1985 summer season Monday with new management and additions to its facilities.

The park is now managed by Joseph and Linda Curet.

The board of supervisors named the Curets resident park managers in January on the recommendation of the Hancock County Park Commission.

In addition to serving as manager, Joseph Curet serves as a deputy park ranger.

New park facilities include a playground recently constructed by the Pearl River Basin Development District, additions to the 24 trailer hook-ups available last summer, a volleyball court, an enlarged picnic area and several new primitive camping areas near the Jourdan River, according to the park commission.

Other facilities available include a two-story pavilion which may be rented for private events, showers, swimming areas, baseball fields, basketball courts, a boat launch and fishing docks.

An information center for visitors is provided at the park office and security station.

Most of the original park facilities were constructed by the county and were completed about 1979, although the park was originally opened in 1977.

The property for the facility was acquired by the county from NASA in 1977 and was originally the site of the McLeod family plantation.

About 60 acres of the 400-acre site have actually been developed, leaving room for future projects, according to the commission.

The park's main gate is off Hwy 603 on Texas Flat Road.

The park's pre-season events include a dedication ceremony Saturday, when the Bourgeois-Stieffel-Bay American Legion Post will donate a flag to the park.

The flag dedication ceremony is set for 10 a.m.

Bay school calendar extended

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis Municipal School District calendar will be extended by a week as part of the effort to makeup days lost during the recent teachers' strike.

Superintendent J. D. McCullough reported the school calendar changes which were made in order to complete the required 175 teaching days for the school year. The final students' day will be

June 13 and the last teachers' day will be June 14. Extending school will make up for five of the nine days lost in the strike.

In addition to the extra week in June, 60 percent school days will also be held on four Saturdays, March 30, April 13 and 30, and May 18.

Graduation exercises will be held June 7 at 8 p.m. in the Tiger Stadium. The exercises were originally scheduled for May 31.

NSTL has strong impact on Hancock County

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is the introduction to a series of articles on agencies located at National Space Technology Laboratories.

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Built in the 1960's to test-fire Saturn V rocket engines, the Mississippi Test Facility has grown into an installation with a $200 million economic impact on Hancock County and surrounding communities.

The test facility which was built by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has evolved into a high-technology and scientific community called National Space Technology Laboratories which employs more than 4,500 people and continues to grow.

"I think the future of NASA looks good and as NASA prospers, so does NSTL," said Jerry Hlass, NSTL director.

Hlass said that President Ronald Reagan has given NASA a great deal of support.

"He realizes that the space program provides the technological leadership for the United States and this is important if we are going to go forward with all the things we want to do, and to be the leaders in technology," Hlass added.

NSTL is one of nine NASA installations across the country.

Hlass said as other NASA installations get more programs, NSTL gets more programs.

SPACE STATION

NSTL participation is currently underway in the planning and developing stages of a permanently manned space station which is expected to be deployed in the early 1990's.

According to Hlass, the space station is a major initiative that the President has placed before Congress and a program that will be underway at NSTL for more than a decade.

The space station will provide an opportunity for American industry to work in space as well as a base for exploration and research.

"The kind of work that industry would do on the space station includes work which requires the space environment, micro-gravity, no gravity or the vacuum of space," Hlass said.

Another major initiative endorsed by the President is the commercialization of space technology.

"In the past access to space technology was limited primarily to government agencies," he said, "but now the President wants to make it available to the commercial sector."

This will encourage commercial investments in more space research and space endeavors.

"We will be participating in that, and will be inviting industry to participate with us in joint research activities which in time will lead to commercial endeavor, commercial enterprise and profit."

Hlass said in contrast to the original time-limited rocket testing program, today's mission at NSTL is here to stay for a long period of time.

"Today we are in a different posture, we are still testing rockets, we're testing the space shuttle main engine," he said.

It is quite different than the rockets for Saturn, simply because those rockets were used only once, the space engine will be used over and over again, Hlass added.

"The space shuttle program, or the space shuttle transportation system, as we sometimes call it, is the main space transportation system for the country and will provide routine access to space," he said.

"That means we have to continue to improve the engine, we have to continue to make sure that the engine can fly several times because it has to live a long time," Hlass stated.

"Hopefully we can get it to the point where it can survive 50 or 55 missions, he said."

"And obviously we have the best facilities in the world for any future shuttle-derived rocket propulsion program testing and we expect that we will be doing it once such programs are approved, Hlass added."

EARTH RESOURCES

"We have also gotten involved in research and development in the earth sciences," Hlass said.

"That includes the application of remote sensing technology (what a satellite sees from 500 miles up) to the benefit of things here on earth," he said.

"We find that this technology will help resource managers on a regional, national and even global scale to manage the earth's resources including agriculture, forestry, geology, etc.," he said.

"We have actually developed technology to better manage resources on a national and global scale and we have a continuing role in that activity," Hlass said.

According to Hlass, the Earth Resources Laboratories are currently working on a project to provide a data system for the United Nations.

This system will allow for storage, comparison and introduction of data which can assist the UN environmental department deal with problems including air and water pollution, acid rain or overpopulation.

ERI also has a vital role in the proposed space station. This role involves participation in the development of a data system to interface with users of the space system.

CARD OF THANKS

First, I would like to express my thanks to my mother, Mrs. Violette Bradford, for being such an excellent campaign manager in both my elections (Mar. 2 and Mar. 16).

Without her untiring efforts, many of the 336 wonderful people who voted for me in those two elections would not have known about my bid for the school board seat.

Special thanks, also, to my daughters Sharon and Jan who stood by my mother and me during both elections to thank our friends for taking the time and trouble to come out to vote.

The Sea Coast Echo and the Sun/Herald newspapers deserve thanks for their fine coverage; also all the poll workers who donated their time and energy working with the chairperson, Mr. Joe Colson to register the record-breaking turnout of voters.

It is my sincere hope that the teachers and children of the school district know that they will always have my continued support and friendship whenever needed.

Martin Marietta Aerospace unveils space station module mockup

Martin Marietta Aerospace unveiled a full-scale mockup of a space station "common" module, similar to the modules that one day will be built and outfitted as living quarters and laboratories in space.

Martin Marietta is using the 38-foot-long mockup in company-sponsored engineering development and human factors studies to support the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) space station development program.

Initially, the space station will have five common modules. Two will be outfitted as living quarters, one as a materials sciences laboratory, one as a manufacturing and technology laboratory, and one as a logistics module. NASA plans to have a permanently manned space station operational in low earth orbit early in the 1990s.

Martin Marietta heads a seven-member industry team competing for a contract to define and do preliminary design for the pressurized common modules that will make up the space station. The modules will be delivered into space by the Space Shuttle, then assembled with other elements of the space station. All the elements will be connected by collapsible trusswork that eventually will stretch to 400 feet long and 300 feet across.

The Martin Marietta mockup consists of a cylindrical shell outfitted as a manufacturing and technology laboratory. It contains 13 racks housing simulated manufacturing experiments similar to those that would actually be conducted in such a lab.

The module, which is 14½ feet in diameter, also contains a test and work bench area to support daily housekeeping and maintenance chores, and a command and control console that shows some of the computers and systems used in the module.

The berthing section of the module contains four radial docking ports and one axial docking port. These will allow mating with other modules, and also will enable experiments to be placed into space and then retrieved.

Small round windows, or viewports, will allow crewmembers to observe externally-mounted experiments and other components outside the space station.

The Martin Marietta team is bidding on a NASA work package managed by Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala. In addition to defining the space station's common module, the work package includes definition and preliminary design of environmental control and propulsive systems; a plan for equipping a module as a laboratory and additional ones as logistics modules; and a plan for accommodating orbital maneuvering and orbital transfer vehicles.

Other members of the team and their responsibilities include:

—Hamilton Standard, Windsor Locks, Conn., environmental control and life support systems;

—Wyle Laboratories, Huntsville, Ala., user accommodations;

—McDonnell Douglas Technical Services Co., Huntsville, Ala., outfitting a laboratory module;

—Honeywell Space and Strategic Avionics Division, Clearwater, Fla., displays, control, and integrated sensors;

—Hercules Inc., Salt Lake City, Utah, studies on composite materials; and —Hughes Aircraft's Microelectronics Division, Irvine, Calif., internal communications.

Martin Marietta's space station efforts are directed by Denver Aerospace, with the Michoud Division assisting in overall planning.

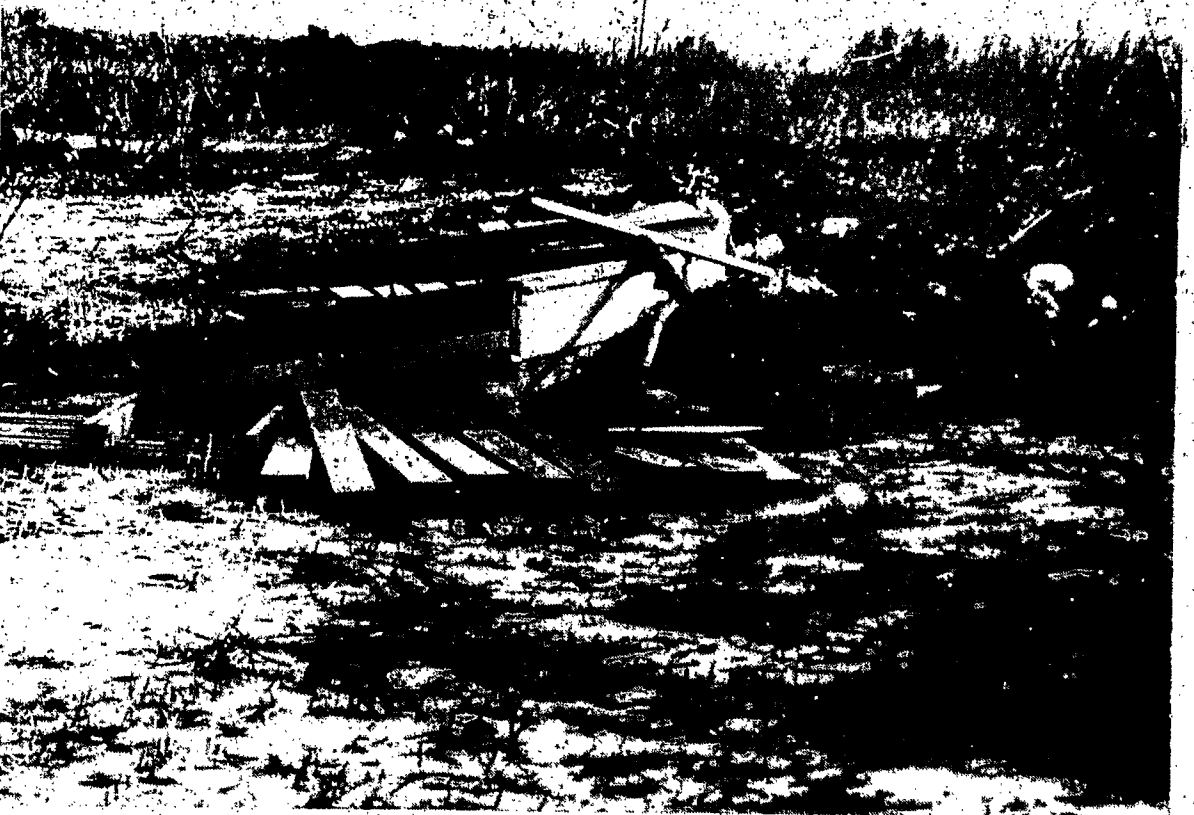

Martin Marietta has been involved in the space station program since its inception, and conducted preliminary studies for NASA. In addition to its space station work, the company builds the external fuel tank for the Space Shuttle and the manned maneuvering unit for use by astronauts in performing various tasks in space.

Under separate NASA contracts, the company also is conducting studies of orbital maneuvering and transfer vehicles, which are expected to be used in conjunction with the space station.

ETV Brief

BROADWAY HIT

A "Great Performances" "double feature" will be presented Friday evening, Mar. 29 on Mississippi ETV.

Beginning at 9 p.m., Bill Irwin's Broadway hit, "The Regard of Flight," will be rebroadcast. It was first seen on ETV in 1983. In the show, Irwin creates a hapless "everyman" character who strives to entertain his audience but is beset with trials and distractions during the process. At one point, in the midst of a vaudevilian dance, he realizes with horror that he is being slowly and inexorably drawn off-stage. He frantically continues his routine and attempts, at the same time, to circumvent his unseen antagonist.

At 10 p.m., "Dance in America" presents "The Taylor Company: Recent Dances," featuring three works performed by the Paul Taylor dance company. The program celebrates the choreography of Taylor at the peak of his career and includes "Snow White," a loose parody of the Walt Disney classic.

INDUSTRIAL GROWTH

Mississippians will pay some $77.6 million in additional taxes next year under the recently enacted teacher pay and other expenditures bill. This column is not intended to be a commentary on the pros or cons of the size of teacher pay rise that our educators deserved. Instead, I wish to call attention to the type of taxes that were selected to fund this pay package.

Some 37 percent of the taxes were in so-called "sin" taxes on beer, alcohol and tobacco. But a sizeable chunk of the new or increased taxes will occur in areas that retard industrial and economic growth—most notably, an increase from 2.5 to 3.5 percent in contractor's tax; a six percent sales tax on computer software sales; an increase from one to 1.5 percent on manufacturing machinery and industrial fuels and energy.

All these taxes have a tremendous impact on industries that want to expand or locate in Mississippi. Let me give an example.

General Motors is looking for a new site for a state of the art company that all will involve $1 billion in capital investment and employ 6,000 people with another 20,000 jobs as a potential spinoff. One of the sites this company is considering is located in DeSoto County, Mississippi, near the Memphis metropolitan area. While this particular type of high technology industry is exempt from the new taxes, many similar firms are not. Let me just tell you what these new taxes—if applicable to the General Motors proposal—would mean.

According to the Department of Economic Development, the $1 billion building that would house the GM facility under present contractor's taxes would cost $25 million in taxes to the company. With the additional tax, they would pay another $10 million.

Under the present equipment tax, the company would pay $10 million in machinery tax. With the additional tax, they would pay another $5 million in taxes.

Under the present utility and fuel tax, the company would pay $188,000 in taxes. The new tax would cost another $94,000 in taxes.

These figures illustrate how these new taxes can keep us from luring very desirable businesses and industries into this state. If our tax practices are going to keep new industries from coming into the state and keep our home-grown industries from expanding, we're defeating the purpose of saying we must have a good education system to get good jobs when the funding method for the education is against the very jobs we need the education to fill.

We've got to work together—the Governor, the Legislature, and the Department of Economic Development—to find funding methods that won't cripple our economic growth.

NEW COAT OF PAINT—Mike Mule, a member of the Mississippi Railway and Transportation Museum puts a new coat of paint on one of the passenger cars of the museum's train which will be again operating this summer at Port Bienville. EASTER SEALS PRESENTED TO GOVERNOR—Miss Shannon McKay, 1985 Easter Seal representative recently presented Governor Allain with a sheet of the 1985 Easter Seals. Each year the Easter Seal Society mails the seals to individuals to remind them that the organization provides direct services to children and adults. The first seals were presented to President Roosevelt in 1934 to encourage donations. The 1985 seals have pictures of the National Easter Seal Child, Danielle Newman. Both Danielle and Shannon were born with spina bifida and received services from the Easter Seal Society. Shannon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shelton McKay of Pelahatchie. She enjoys swimming and it rates very high on her priority list when she attends Easter Seal's Camp Fun-A-Lot. Shannon is ten years of age and attends school at Pelahatchie Attendance Center. During her busy schedule for Easter Seals, Shannon visited the Governor's Mansion at which time she presented Governor Allain with the Easter Seals. Governor Allain then signed a proclamation supporting Easter Seals. Shannon represents the 12,536 Mississippians with disabilities who benefitted from the Mississippi Easter Seal Society last year.

GIRL SCOUTS

73rd ANNIVERSARY

PUBLIC RESEARCH SYNDICATED • 480 N. Jiridian Hill Blvd., Suite 2 • Claremont, CA 91711

Editor's Note: 1835 marks the 150th anniversary of the publication of Alexis de Tocqueville's 'Democracy in America.'

Tocqueville had come to America in 1831 to discover what the future held for his native France. What changes would democracy bring? What did democratic society look like?

The young American democracy was the place to come for answers. Because the question of democracy was working itself out in practical terms.

This article by Catherine Zuckert, associate professor of political science at Carleton College, looks at Tocqueville's analysis of American democracy.

Democracy In America—150 Years Later

By Catherine Zuckert

In 1831 a young French aristocrat came to the United States to obtain a view of the future. In 1835, he published his findings.

Reading Alexis de Tocqueville's classic analysis of 'Democracy in America' 150 years later, we cannot fail to be amazed at his foresight.

How could an inhabitant of 19th Century Europe, then ruled entirely by monarchs, know that virtually all nations would soon become republics?

How was he able to predict that within 100 years, the only claim to political legitimacy would be service to the people, whether or not the government was free?

How could an observer of the American Union, divided over slavery, and of the backward, barbaric despotism reigning in Russia assert that these two nations would emerge as the two great world powers?

Tocqueville made these predictions on the basis of a strong sense of historical necessity. Human beings, he observed, were everywhere becoming more equal to each other. The great gap between few wealthy, educated landholders and their many impoverished, ignorant peasants, characteristic of pre-modern societies, was gradually being reduced by modern developments in the world economy and in society.

Men who see themselves essentially as equals will not tolerate aristocratic rule, Tocqueville predicted. There was no question in his mind, therefore, as to the egalitarian tendency of all politics in the foreseeable future.

Egalitarian politics are not necessarily free politics, however. Tocqueville thought that men might well try to level all differences, to destroy all distinctions among individuals and all personal independence of thought and action in the name of fostering equality.

Like Marx, Tocqueville saw that all nations are basically divided into two economic classes, and that this division between rich and poor is reflected in political alignments.

Tocqueville feared that in a democracy, the poor majority might try to use its political power to oppress the rich, for example by confiscating and redistributing all their possessions.

Unlike Marx, however, Tocqueville thought that historical events are the product of the interplay of several factors—institutions and opinions as well as economic interests.

Because men can affect the outcome of this interplay, Tocqueville thought that men could take steps to preserve their liberty in an age of equality.

The great question for Tocqueville was, how could this be done? It would not be sufficient simply to let history run its course, he observed. The strong tendency toward centralized administration in modern egalitarian regimes threatens to destroy individual independence even without intending to do so.

It was necessary, therefore, not only to identify the source of the danger but also to know what would work.

A new political science was necessary for the new era. Men would have to recognize not only the economic interests but also the moral and political passions which drive human beings.

They would need, moreover, to come to understand the way in which laws and institutions shape popular opinion, because human beings act in politics on the basis of their opinions.

Modern men can preserve their freedom, that is, their ability to think and act for themselves, under conditions of equality, Tocqueville argued.

Electing the government, with the freedom of speech, press, and association guaranteed by law, is an important means of securing the populace from oppression. But elections are not enough.

To rule responsibly, elected officials must govern by law; but for laws to be effective, they must have broad popular support. And to obtain that support, Tocqueville argued two things are essential.

First, the people must feel that they have a part in making the law. Widespread popular participation in political decision-making is possible only if some governmental functions are divided up and distributed among local councils. Masses of people cannot assemble and effectively participate in the legislative process in the state or national capital.

Second, the vast majority of the people must believe that they have a stake in preserving the existing political order. That is, they must think the current order benefits them personally; and the vast majority will feel this only when the own property.

Both of these conditions will prevail, Tocqueville said, only if political leaders intentionally seek to produce them. The dominant political and economic forces in the modern age naturally move in the other direction. Unless people clearly perceive the advantage of local politics, for example, both parties and governments tend to become increasingly centralized and nationalized.

Likewise, the more wealth becomes a matter of income (paper, stocks, bonds, checks) rather than land and household, the harder it is to see the connection between protecting the integrity, privacy, and independence of the individual and respecting the rights of property.

As a result, government regulation or even ownership of property becomes increasingly the rule rather than the exception. In an age in which "people's republics" are prevalent, and liberal democracy rare, it is clear that too few politicians have attended sufficiently to the lessons Tocqueville taught.

Try to find the BaySide Park entrance off US-90 after dark!

Dear Editor;

Have you ever tried to find the entrance to BaySide Park from the highway after dark?

BaySide Park area houses 500 or more families and as a resident of this area I am concerned.

There are signs that show a road entering coming each way to the BaySide Park area but that's all.

There isn't even a reflector showing the actual entrance to BaySide Park.

This leaves a very hazardous condition to motorists either coming from, going to, or just passing through this area.

There is a nice white picket fence facing each direction at the entrance of BaySide Park.

Reflectors on that fence, flashing caution light or a street light lighting the entrance would end this hazardous condition for motorists and it search for BaySide Park after dark.

USM receives recognition for alcohol awareness week

An award of merit has been received by the University of Southern Mississippi for its efforts during State Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week, observed last Oct. 8-14.

The National Association of Student Personnel Administrators' Board of Directors selected USM as the recipient of NASPAs' Award of Merit for Outstanding Program during the week.

The institution will be recognized at NASPAs' awards luncheon during a national conference in Portland, Ore., Mar. 31 to Apr. 3.

USM coordinator of Residential Student Development, Dr. Brenda J. Richardson, coordinated plans and submitted a summary of activities and promotions held at USM during the week. The program was designed to increase students' consciousness, knowledge and attitudes regarding alcohol use. Residential halls, as well as campus organizations and academic departments, supported the efforts.

A request from USM Director of Housing Robert S. Kivetz to the governor brought about the proclaiming of Oct. 8-14 as State Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week.

Other campus awareness efforts included an R.C. Cook Library display of books pertaining to alcohol use; table tents placed in all campus cafeterias; flyers posted in all residence halls; and alcohol brochures placed in the University Union.

Campus activities were highlighted by the towing to campus of a wrecked vehicle that had been driven by a drunken driver. The wrecked car was parked in the middle of the campus with banners reading, "Drinking Driving Can Kill a Friend."

Support for the awareness week also was demonstrated by the USM Associated Student Body, which placed an advertisement in The Student Printz campus newspaper backing the safety effort. The Student Printz featured several awareness articles highlighting upcoming events.

Local alcohol beverage companies cooperated by providing posters, brochures and table tents; and a local mental health complex and the Mississippi Highway Patrol office also provided brochures and booklets for students.

A vast slate of resources that included films, speakers and games was provided by USM residence hall staff members who programmed activities for residents throughout the week.

Students reviewed the film, "The Day I Died," depicting the last day of life for a teen-ager killed in a car accident after drinking too much. A guest speaker from the local Pine Belt Mental Health and Rehabilitation Center was featured along with group discussions about alcohol use and abuse, and a proposal to raise the state's legal beer-drinking age from 18 to 21. Alternative bars were provided where non-alcoholic drinks such as "virgin" daiquiris were served.

USM's Health and Safety Department showed the film, "The Party's Over." Afterwards, Bruce Thornhill, whose family has sustained serious injuries from encounters with drunken drivers, shared his experiences; talked about the signs to aid in detecting drunken drivers on the highway; and discussed the legal implications of drinking and driving.

A representative from Brookwood Recovery Center in Jackson, one of a chain of private hospitals for the chemically dependent, showed the film, "Chalk Talk."

Symptoms of alcoholism and alternatives for professional help were reviewed.

Faculty in the USM departments of psychology and counseling gave class credit to students attending presentations, and resident assistants were given credit or organizing scholastic programs if a minimum of 10 persons from their floor attended a presentation.

Activities concluded with an alcohol awareness poster contest, with the winner receiving a $50 prize. Participants included members of residence hall councils, fraternities and sororities. All posters were displayed in the University Union lobby.

"The Impact of Alcohol Awareness Week can be seen in the raising of students' consciousness and responsibilities toward alcohol consumption," Dr. Richardson said.

"The attendance and active participation by students evidenced the impact. Other long-term results include an annual week (of observance) for the state, the reactivation of BACCHUS (Boost Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students), the possibility of annual activities for this special week and numerous resources for future programs," she added.

Theron J. Bell, deputy director of the U.S. Department of Commerce's Minority Business Development Agency who served in California as special assistant for community relations and director of Office of Economic Opportunity during Ronald Reagan's term as governor, will be honored at a 7 p.m. reception Friday at LaFont Inn on US-90 in Pascagoula. Sponsors of the event include Hancock County, Gulf Coast and Jackson Community Action Agencies; USM Research and Development Management Assistance Center; Mississippi Small Business Development Center; and U.S. Small Business Administration. The reception will include a sandwich buffet. The event is free and open to the public. For information call Lucy Hazeur, 467-3198.

UNO Media Showcase to feature two films

Media Showcase, an annual program featuring film productions of the University of New Orleans department of drama and communications, will be held Friday and Saturday, March 29-30, at 8 p.m. in the recital hall of the UNO Performing Arts Center.

The program will premiere "The Limner," the department's 1984 major film production, directed by UNO assistant professor J. Stephen Hank. It will also feature the animated short, "I Ching," and the 1975 UNO-produced film, "Galvez," which won the Cine Golden Eagle award.

A half-hour dramatic narrative, "The Limner" concerns an American photographer traveling in China in the 1850s and his encounter with a young Chinese woman at the outbreak of the Taiping Rebellion, one of China's bloodiest revolutions. Jerry Healy is cast as the photographer and Doon Wune-Yue as the Chinese woman.

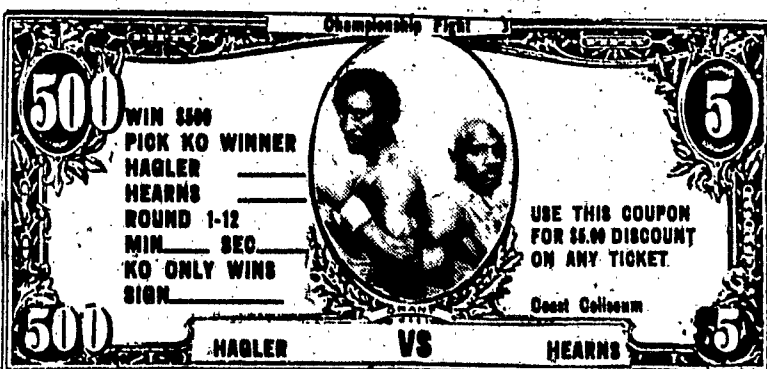

Screenplay for "The Limner" was co-authored by Hank and UNO student Carla Shirer. Original music for the film was composed by David Brown and Jerry Sieg of UNO's music department.

The production was filmed entirely in Louisiana. The Chinese countryside scenes were filmed at the Louisiana State University rice research station in Crowley and at Long Vue Gardens in New Orleans. Interiors of a Chinese house were constructed on a sound stage in UNO's Performing Arts Center. The film crew consisted of students enrolled in the university's film studies program; the cast includes UNO students and Chinese speaking non-professionals from the New Orleans community.

"Galvez," also a half-hour film, was produced for the Louisiana Council for the Vieux Carre to honor the U.S. bicentennial in 1976. Depicting a six-month mini-war between the Spanish government of Louisiana and the British in 1779, it provides a Louisiana connection to the American Revolution. It was filmed on location in New Orleans and Louisiana.

General admission tickets are $5. Reservations may be made by calling 286-6808 or 286-6805.

MEDIA SHOWCASE—Doon Wune-Yue is a young Chinese woman caught up in revolution in the University of New Orleans film production, "The Limner," which will be premiered during UNO's annual Media Showcase Friday and Saturday, March 29-30, at 8 p.m. in the recital hall of the UNO Performing Arts Center.

to the innocent affection of a young girl for a lonely invalid; from the clandestine affair of a middle-aged man and a shop girl to an imaginary idyll at the south of France.

The first story is "A Dedicated Man" by Elizabeth Taylor and starring Alec McCowen and Joan Plowright. The story involves a lonely woman who agrees to pose as the wife of a colleague so as to obtain a position at a select country hotel as head waiter and waitress.

The chapel, completed in 1936, has served as the center of religious activity for the seminary and has been the site of more ordinations of black Catholic priests than any other church in the U.S. If the walls of the chapel could talk they might recall the visits of cardinals and the Apostolic Delegates; the preaching of Archbishop Fulton Sheen; and the first Episcopal Mass of Bishop Bowers in 1953 and the first U. S. Black Bishop. The Grotto was constructed of stones from the old seawall of Bay St. Louis - the front part honors Our Lady of Lourdes; the other section depicts the Agony in the Garden.

SUBOCCIPITAL HEADACHES

How many useless remedies are taken for this condition in anyone's guess. The pain in this type of headache usually starts at the base of the head, by the neck, and spreads to the sides and top of the head. People subject to this condition have a developing structural problem in the spine. Usually, the headache frequency and intensity increases as the spine undergoes further adverse changes. Working in static postures, such as long hours at a desk or typing, serve to aggravate this problem. Competent Chiropractic care will clear up the majority of these problems.

FEEDING YOUR BABY FROM BIRTH THROUGH THE FIRST YEAR

Your baby is so important, and the way you feed your baby during the first year will make a difference in your baby's mental, physical, and emotional development. To get your baby off to a good start, it is important that you know how to feed your baby in the manner that will insure the baby's good health.

BREAST FEEDING OR BOTTLE FEEDING?

When you are deciding how the baby is to be fed, you must make the decision to breast feed or to bottle feed. Although this decision is yours to make, in consultation with your physician or pediatrician, here are some ideas you might keep in mind in making your decision.

Breast feeding

Breast feeding requires a physically capable mother—one who is adequately nourished, free from infection or disease, and not taking medicine that would be harmful to the baby; a desire on the part of the mother to nurse her baby; and the time necessary for feeding and availability to the infant.

When one or more of the above conditions cannot be met, it is usually better for the mother to bottle feed the baby.

Breast feeding has some advantages over bottle feeding, including: it is economical and requires little preparation; it is clean and bacteria-free; antibodies which help to prevent infection are found in human milk and are transferred to the infant; human milk helps make your baby less likely to develop allergies; human milk matches your baby's nutrient needs and is the only food the baby needs during the first six months of life; and it is emotionally satisfying for both the mother and the infant.

Formula feeding

If you decide to feed your baby formula instead of breast milk, your doctor will probably recommend either a commercial formula or a formula made from evaporated milk. Commercial formulas usually are found in a dried or liquid form. Unless your doctor specifies differently, be sure and choose a formula that has been iron-fortified, and be sure and dilute commercial formulas according to the directions on the label.

If you use a formula made from evaporated milk, ask your doctor about supplementing it with iron and vitamin C. Follow carefully your doctor's instructions for making the evaporated milk formula.

Some types of milk are not recommended for use in infant formulas, including:

1. Low-fat (2%) or non-fat (skim) milk. Two-percent fat milk may be used after one year but skim milk should not be offered until the child is two years of age. These forms of milk are very frequently fortified with non-fat milk solids which increase the protein and mineral content of the milk, placing an extra burden on the kidneys. Additionally, these forms of milk do not provide adequate calories for normal growth of an infant or cholesterol needed for early brain development.

2. Sweetened condensed milk. The extra sugar in sweetened condensed milk makes it undesirable for use in infant feeding formulas.

3. Imitation milk. Imitation milk looks like milk but has no milk or dairy products in it. It is made by mixing water, fat, corn-syrup protein, and other non-dairy products. Imitation milk will not provide the needed nutrients for your baby's growth.

4. Filled milk. Filled milk is made by combining coconut fat with milk solids to make a product which resembles milk. Coconut fat is used to replace the butter fat. Filled milk should not be used to feed infants, as coconut oil is a highly saturated fat, and

5. Raw milk. Milk taken straight from animals should never be used in infant feeding. It may contain very harmful bacteria. Also, because it has not been processed, it is difficult for your baby to digest and may cause stomach upsets.

WEANING YOUR BABY

When your baby is four to six months old, you can start to add solid food to the infant's diet. There is no advantage to adding solids any earlier. At four to six months of age, your infant is prepared to suck liquids. Adding solid foods earlier may cause your baby to become overweight, interfere with the use of nutrients the baby gets from milk, or cause food allergies.

Contrary to popular belief, solid foods fed earlier than age four to six months will not help your baby sleep through the night. At age four to six months, your baby will be mature enough to eat solid foods.

Begin feeding your infant an iron-fortified, single-grain dry cereal which has been commercially prepared for infants. Rice cereal is a good cereal with which to start. To make sure your baby gets adequate iron, feed an iron-fortified cereal daily until the baby is 18 months old.

Always feed your baby cereal with a spoon. Do not use an infant feeder or put cereal into your baby's bottle. Do not add sugar to infant cereal.

Once your baby has become well accustomed to cereal, you can add a variety of strained, commercially prepared or homemade vegetables and fruits to your infant's diet. New foods should be added one at a time and no more often than every three days. Following this practice will help to pinpoint any food allergies, should they be present.

When vegetables and fruits have been accepted by your infant, other foods such as egg yolk and strained meats can be added to the baby's diet. Finally, well-chopped or ground table food and whole eggs can be added to your infant's diet. Good finger foods to add to your baby's diet are cooked vegetables, soft meats, soft fruits, and mild cheeses.

Because high intakes of sodium during a baby's first year may cause hypertension (high blood pressure) in later life, salt has been removed from commercial baby foods. Never add sugar or salt to commercial or homemade baby food.

As your baby is gradually weaned from milk to solid foods, make sure that your infant gets some protein rich foods daily. Meat, poultry, fish and egg yolk all provide high quality protein.

If you are breast feeding your baby, you can continue until your infant is 18 to 24 months old. However, solid foods still need to be added to your baby's diet when the baby is four to six months of age. If solid foods are not introduced until later, your baby will have a much more difficult time accepting them.

If you are formula feeding your baby, you can replace formula with homogenized, vitamin D-fortified, whole milk when your baby is eating a total of one cup (about two baby food jars) of foods other than formula each day. Do not feed your baby more than one quart of homogenized milk per day.

Feeding large amounts of homogenized milk may cause intestinal blood loss, which may be responsible for as many as half of the cases of iron-deficiency anemia in infants. Additionally, infants who drink large amounts of milk may eat less solid food at a time when it is important for them to receive solid foods.

Feeding your baby whole milk requires the addition of vitamin C to the baby's diet. To provide this nutrient, make sure that your baby gets at least 1½ ounces (about three tablespoons) of fruit juice daily. (Strained fruit juice made for infants—orange or other fruit juice fortified with vitamin C—or fresh or frozen orange juice, mixed with an equal amount of water, may be used.)

OTHER FEEDING POINTERS

Your baby's need for water is great. Give your baby water between feedings. Do not add anything, such as sugar, honey, or syrup, to the water. Also, consult your doctor about adding a fluoride supplement to your baby's diet if your community water does not have fluoride added to it.

Do not force your baby to continue to eat when the infant shows signs of being full. Let your baby stop eating; overfeeding can lead to overweight. A fat baby is not necessarily a healthy baby.

Never feed honey to an infant younger than one year of age. In the infant's intestinal tract, honey can produce a poison (Clostridium botulinum) that can cause death.

Limit the number of strained and junior baby food; desserts you feed your baby. These foods add mainly carbohydrates and calories and little else in the way of nutrients.

A thought for meditation from our pastor, Father Lambert Stack, ST. Ann's Easter Prayer:

"Lord, bring me Your peace. You are always right here, ready to free me of my confusion and get me going in the right direction."

"You strengthen me by Your whispered direction to: 'Go ahead and run: skipping into your future, I shall hold you in My arms, until you win the prize. And when you finally arrive I shall go on holding you forever and forever.'"

—St. Augustine, Confessions, 6:16

Libraries to stock IRS forms.

Persons needing Federal income tax information can turn to many local libraries this year, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Local libraries may stock many frequently requested IRS publications including the IRS Publication 910, "Taxpayer's Guide to IRS Information, Assistance, and Publications." This helpful booklet includes an explanation of IRS services, filing tips, recordkeeping information, how to file estimated taxes, and also lists many available IRS publications, with descriptions.

Another publication which will be available at many libraries is the Tele-Tax brochure, listing Tele-Tax information numbers and a listing of over 150 taped tax information topics.

In addition, many libraries have reproducible IRS forms, which can be duplicated on a machine copier. In some libraries, forms also will be stocked for taxpayers to pick up. Cassette tapes, with recorded instructions for preparing Forms 1040, 1040EZ, and 1040EZ, will also be available at many libraries.

Taxpayers needing their own copies of IRS publications can order them by using the order form in the tax package or in Publication 910 or by calling 1-800-241-3860.

75th anniversary kick-off set for Saturday at USM

Marking a significant milestone in the history of the University of Southern Mississippi, plans were recently announced for a 75th anniversary celebration to begin Mar. 30 and continue through Sept. 18, 1987.

During the 30 months, USM will celebrate both its establishment by the Mississippi Legislature on Mar. 30, 1910 and the beginning of classes on Sept. 18, 1912.

"Although the university is quite young," USM president Dr. Aubrey K. Lucas said during a press conference Mar. 6, "when looking at what USM has become, you can readily conclude that we're actually quite mature."

Lucas said, "This maturity and the status of the university as a multi-purpose, comprehensive state university where teaching, research and service are bringing recognition to the region as well as the nation will be confirmed during the celebration."

Joining Dr. Lucas in announcing the anniversary were Powell G. Ogletree, director of the USM Alumni Association, and Dr. Peggy Preshaw, assistant dean of the USM Graduate School and chairman of an 11-member faculty/staff steering committee overseeing events surrounding the celebration.

Ogletree said, "Every year Mar. 30 has been observed as USM Day for 31 years. This year the day will be special as the Forrest County chapter of the Alumni Association holds a brunch at 10:30 a.m. in the USM Commons, followed by a satellite program beamed nationwide at noon from the Performing Arts Center. This will mark the first world-wide alumni meeting held by any university in America."

Tickets can be obtained at the Alumni House.

In addition to the Alumni Association's involvement, Ogletree outlined several goals and objectives for the 30-month observance. He said February's edition of the Southern News and Views alumni publication encouraged every former student physically able to visit the campus and sign a register as well as asking everyone to do "something special" for USM.

Ogletree will announce details of a capital fund-raising campaign to raise $7.5 million at the Mar. 30 meeting.

Dr. Preshaw said her committee has solicited suggestions and recommendations from faculty, staff and students. She said a special logo has been prepared and plans are being made for a pictorial history of the university.

Numerous exhibits, recitals, concerts and athletic activities will highlight the celebration and some exciting scholarly and cultural activities, such as a lecture series or symposium on the nature of the university in the community, will be explored.

From an economic standpoint, Dr. Preshaw said the committee is screening ideas of community members and is preparing a calendar of events surrounding the anniversary. She mentioned plans for an old-fashioned ice-cream social to kick-off the school year and the possibility of a parade in Hattiesburg.

Dr. Lucas stressed that the community is very supportive of the university. "It seems appropriate that the community should be thanked for the support it lends the university," he pointed out.

NEED A PET?—This 10-month-old puppy needs a home. He is currently being housed at the Hancock County Animal Shelter but if not adopted soon must be painlessly destroyed to make room for other animals being brought to the shelter. Dogs of various breeds, sizes and ages as well as cats and kittens are available for adoption at the shelter. For more information call, 467-0230. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

Hancock schedules Saturday classes

BY DENA BISNETTE
High school graduation has been moved and Saturday classes have been added to the Hancock County School District.

The schedule changes will permit students to make up school days missed during the recent teachers' strike, according to Assistant Superintendent James Pair.

High school graduation at Hancock North Central has been moved to June 7. The last day of the 1984-85 school term for students other than seniors will be June 12.

Saturday classes for Hancock North Central students, both elementary and secondary levels, will be March 30 and April 13 and 20, Pair said.

Students at Gulfview and Charles B. Murphy elementary schools will attend classes on March 30 and April 13, 20 and 27.

Pair said classes have been scheduled for 60 percent days with Hancock North Central students being released at 1:30 p.m.

Students at Gulfview and Charles B. Murphy will be released at 12:30 p.m.

He said the schedule changes have been approved by the school board but added that further alterations to the school calendar may be made at a later date.

Mayor Bishop reports:

Court—not aldermen—to hear Pass annexation arguments

The city of Pass Christian plans no meeting with a civic association protesting a proposed annexation, Mayor Gordon Bishop said Wednesday.

Bishop said a representative of the Pass Christian Isles-Henderson Point Civic Association had asked to be placed on the agenda for the board's regular meeting April 2.

The mayor said that request has not been granted.

"I understand that they want to present a petition and if they do, the board will accept the petition into the record," Bishop stated.

The mayor said he understands the petition requests that the annexation proposal be brought to a vote.

"There is nothing in the state law providing for a referendum on an annexation," he said. Annexation proposals must instead be approved in Chancery Court.

A hearing on the proposal has been set for May 1 in Harrison County Chancery Court in Gulfport. The deadline for providing the court with documents supporting or opposing annexation is April 19.

Bishop said the city board had completed its discussion of the proposal and said any further discussion of the matter would occur at the hearing.

The proposed annexation includes an area north from Henderson Point and Pass Christian-Isles to Bayou Portage; Bay Colony and Bal Moral subdivisions and the industrial seaway area east to Menge Avenue; north to Demorelle Road and east to the Long Beach city limits at Beatline Road.

Your Stars Above

BY EVE EWING

ARIES (3-21/4-19) A family problem will require the patience and forbearance of everyone if it is to be resolved without lasting hard feelings. Forget past injuries and slights.

TAURUS (4-20/5-20) Martyrs were no doubt highly noble, but they couldn't have been easy to live with. Stop suffering in obvious silence and let others know what grieves you. Or risk losing their love and support.

GEMINI (5-21/6-20) An unquenchable happy nature will see you through a recent loss. Your ability to bounce back will give comfort to others who need help in facing up to the inevitable.

CANCER (6-21/7-22) Don't cling so closely to the past that you lose sight of the good things you have today. The good things in your past can help you build a better future. Forget the hurts and disappointments.

LEO (7-23/8-22) Your busy schedule leads you to put off tending to personal matters that require solution. Resolve to make amends now while you still have control of the decisions.

VIRGO (8-23/9-22) A disappointing financial year should take a sudden turn for the better. Don't give up too quickly. You are on the right track and just a little more patience will see you through.

LIBRA (9-23/10-22) Accepting a relative's offer of employment means you must work twice as hard as the other employees to prove yourself. If you can face down the problems, it could be highly beneficial.

SCORPIO (10-23/11-21) A business colleague has interpreted your helpfulness as romantic interest. To avoid future problems, accompany your advice with talk of your happy marriage, and disengage yourself gradually.

SAGITTARIUS (11-22/12-21) Don't take on personal commitments while you are still daydreaming about far away places. Try to make those dreams a reality before you are tied down, or you face lifelong dissatisfaction.

CAPRICORN (12-22/1-19) A steady and reliable nature leads some family members to unload their burdens onto your shoulders. While this is flattering, it is unwise. Encourage their independence or face the consequences.

AQUARIUS (1-20/2-18) Conflict between idealism and extravagance will bring much grief unless you come to terms with it now. Seek career paths that allow expression of both traits.

PISCES (2-19/3-20) All causes are not worthy, however glib their spokesmen are. Develop some sales resistance to their pitch, or risk major heartache and financial chaos down the road.

VEHICLE COLLISION—A Mobile Medic Ambulance answering an emergency call and an automobile were involved in a collision late Saturday on Beach Boulevard at Ballentine Street. Bay Police Lt. Gary Crum said Joseph Carpenter, 150 Shorecrest, Biloxi, was the driver of the ambulance and Sharon Ladner, 414 Ballentine, Bay St. Louis, was driver of the car. Ms. Ladner was taken to Hancock General Hospital and treated for a laceration to her lip and released, according to a hospital spokesman, Robert Lee. Bay police investigator, said the accident report stated both vehicles were traveling north on Beach Boulevard. The ambulance was in the process of passing a vehicle behind the one driven by Ladner as she was attempting to turn left onto Ballentine when the collision occurred. No citations were issued, Lee said. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

How do you eat the 'heel' or the 'nose' of French bread—the ends of a crisp outside, soft inside loaf? Well, of course, first you hollow out the soft part of the nose, then you fill it with delectables of your choice, and enjoy!

My favorite of favorites for this treat is cold red beans, liberally splashed with Tabasco and pepper—try it sometime! There are other tasty ways, as attested to in that delightful cookbook, "Home Cooking" which I'm still working on—and cooking—and eating through!

This cookbook (see last week's column for other details) is one of the most cookable I've come across—in other words, no elaborate directions or too many out-of-the-ordinary ingredients, just good recipes for good meals.

Back to the nose or the heel: St. Tammany parish residents in old Louisiana, who compiled this cookbook, have ingenious solutions, such as Ruth Grant's peanut butter and cane syrup, 'squished down and eaten like a sandwich'—or Ella

Paine's meatballs in sauce, 'squashed down and eaten like a sandwich' and let's not omit Peter Soules' "The best way to eat the ends on a loaf of French bread, on the way home from the grocery."

And that brought to mind childhood days on the Gulf Coast or in St. Tammany parish, especially a little bakery somewhere around Lewisburg (and may the gremlins who lurk in every newspaper's typesetting equipment please spell it right this week!)

My father would take us to the bakery just as the bread was coming out of the ovens, and back to the summer house we'd rush to eat the hot bread with butter and cane syrup—the four of us youngsters vying for the noses!

But we enjoyed far more delectables than hot French bread when we trekked to the North Shore of Lake Ponchartrain—seafood aplenty, fresh vegetables, fruits, all sorts of culinary delights.

And, in this cookbook I came across an interesting—and delicious recipe for trout. Here's Meda Koepf's:

Trout Meda

8 4-oz. trout filets, seasoned and dusted with flour
½ stick butter
1 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced
2 cans drained artichokes, sliced
1 pkg. onion soup mix
½ cup green onions, ¼ parsley, chopped
1 cup cream
Salt and pepper

In a small black skillet, add butter, mushrooms and saute until tender. Add artichokes, soup mix and cream. Cook until smooth. Add green onions, parsley, salt and pepper, and remove from fire.

In large iron skillet, melt remaining butter and saute trout until it is done, about 8 minutes. Place in serving dish. Top with mushroom and artichoke mixture and garnish with chopped parsley. Serve with egg noodles.

Coliform counts for the Clermont Harbor, Jourdan River Shores and Pass Christian Isles systems were not available Wednesday, but Sullivan said a boiled water warning would be issued to customers of those systems if tests show counts violating EPA standards.

She said Johnson Utilities could be fined as much as $5,000 per day if found guilty of non-compliance. The fine would be limited to the time period during which the alleged violation occurred.

Most of the alleged violations occurred between September 1984 and January 1985 and lasted at least 90 days, she added.

NEW BUSINESS—Steve Barron, owner of Bay-Waveland Woodworks and Bazaar, displays some of his architectural woodwork for co-owner and manager P.C. Leach. Barron specializes in new and antique architectural woodwork and custom-made wood products such as benches. The shop also features crafts and collectible items provided by 12 dealers, including several formerly housed in the Antique Arcade Building. Bay-Waveland Woodworks is located on U.S.-90 West next to Pressman Realty and will celebrate its grand opening Sunday. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

OTHER AGENCIES

"When we look at NSTL today, we can see a number of government agencies that have been brought in and even though they are not involved in the space program, they have become an integral part of this facility," Hlass said.

The approximately 17 different agencies include offices or laboratories for branches of the departments of Defense, Commerce and Interior.

They include Naval Oceanographic Command, head of a global operation which collects and disseminates ocean activities. An office of this command, Naval Oceanographic Office (NAVOCEANO) is also located at NSTL.

Another office of the Department of Navy is the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity.

Established as a field activity of the Office for Naval Research, NORDA serves as a focal point for ocean environmental research and development.

Three agencies of the Department of the Army are located at NSTL—Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant; U.S. Army Armament, Munitions and Chemical Command; and U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The Army Ammunition Plant is the nation's newest and most sophisticated munitions manufacturing facility. It was designed to produce the complete round of the 155mm M483A1 projectile.

Army Armament, Munitions and Chemical Command facility includes a remote test range staffed by experts in the area of explosive and hazardous material research.

Commerce Department offices include the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration Data Buoy Center and the National Marine Fisheries Service.

Coast Episcopal splits pair in Spring football jamboree

Coast Episcopal High School hosted a Tri State Football Conference Jamboree on its Pass Christian campus Saturday.

Five teams participated in five games consisting of two 12-minute halves.

Play opened at 11 a.m. between the CEHS Raiders and the Bible Baptist Crusaders from Gulfport.

In the first quarter, Raider Mike Hart scored on a quarterback sneak. The kick failed and the score was 6 to 0.

In the second quarter, the Bible Baptist Crusaders ran 25 yards to score. Then they ran an option which was good—the halftime score became 6 to 8.

In the second half, Raider Eric Grassit threw a 30-yard bomb to Chris Riggs for a touchdown.

Bryan Maach ran a pitch right to make the final winning score 14 to 8, Raiders.

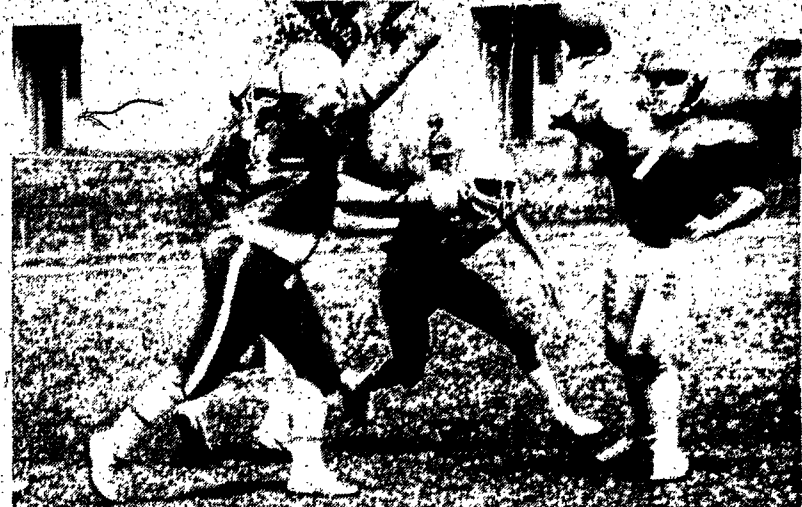

The second game that the Raiders played was against Hattiesburg. In the first half, Hattiesburg scored on a 30-yard pass play. With a roll-out pass, the score became 8 to 0.

The Coast Episcopal High School team came back with a 60-yard pass play from Hart to Chris Riggs. Grassit carried the ball over for the touchdown. The conversion failed. The halftime score was 8 to 6.

In the second half, Hattiesburg scored on a 30-yard pass. The conversion was no good. Hattiesburg won with a final score of 14 to 6.

In other games, Cornerstone from Baton Rouge beat Open Door Academy from Foley, Ala. 14 to 8; Bible Baptist from Gulfport tied Open Door Academy 8 to 8; and Cornerstone beat Hattiesburg 12 to 8.

Gulf Coast Raiders take U-14 title

Under-14

Gulf Coast Waste and Disposal Raiders edged the Nationwide Insurance, Inc. Eagles 2-1 Saturday at St. Augustine Seminary Field in an Under-14 championship soccer event.

Gulf Coast Coach Paul Montjoy said, "This was as close a game as could be expected. The difference was primarily the strong defense of the Raiders with their goalie, Alan Schott, being designated as the Most Valuable Player."

Travis Thomas scored both goals for Gulf Coast. The first half of the game was played with both teams feeling their way, with Nationwide Insurance having the edge.

The intensity of play increased as the game progressed.

Travis Thomas, Raiders' center forward, scored on pass from Tres James.

Later in the first half, Gulf Coast Waste was penalized for a "hands in the penalty box" and Raiders' goalie, Alan Schott, stopped the penalty shot to preserve his team's lead at the end of the first half.

The second half was evenly played and Nationwide Insurance was awarded another penalty shot by Scott Necaise to tie the game 1 to 1.

Late in the second half, with approximately two minutes to go, Travis Thomas collected a loose ball and drove in for the score, making the final score 2 to 1 in favor of Gulf Coast.

Both teams advanced to District Playoffs in Gulfport.

"These teams are generally composed of the boys who started soccer as six- and seven-year-olds when soccer first began in Hancock County, some six years ago," Montjoy said.

"They are very representative of the improvement in the quality of play that has been experienced in these six years," the coach added.

Under-8

Play continues in a tightly-contested race among three teams. Nell Frisbie won in a contest against Rotary Club 1-0 to complete their season. This puts them in second place in point standings.

Coca Cola will play Dental Health Services on Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at Waveland Elementary School field to determine which of these three teams will represent the BAYS in district play.

Under-10

While play is not yet complete, the first and second place teams are decided—first place, Bernard Construction; second place, Take One Video.

Under-12

Loisano's played Pat's Chevron to a 0-0 tie and McDonald Realty lost to Waveland Produce.

This assures first place for Waveland Produce. Second place will be determined between Loisano's and Pat's Chevron based on games to be played this weekend.

Rosato named Eagle recruiter

University of Southern Mississippi head football coach Jim Carmody has completed his staff for 1985, with the addition of a defensive line coach and the elevation of a graduate assistant into the position of scout team coach and recruiting coordinator.

Carmody today announced that Jim Tompkins will fill the defensive position, with Jimmy Rosato moving into the other spot. Tompkins moves to USM from the University of Richmond where he coached with a Spider program that competed in last season's 1AA playoffs.

He is a Montgomery, Ala., native, a Troy State graduate, and coached several years in the high school ranks in Florida and Alabama.

THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN MISSISSIPPI

He next served as defensive coordinator at his alma mater, and later at Jacksonville State and Richmond. Rosato is a graduate of St. Stanislaus High School and USM. He coached on the high school level several years in Georgia, and has been a graduate assistant at USM the past two years.

Concerning the announcement, Carmody says, "We're glad to have the latest additions to the staff, and this now completes the coaching staff for 1985."

The annual Black and Gold Spring game Apr. 2 will end spring work currently underway.

Rosato replaces Freeman Horton who recently moved to the tight end coaching spot, and Tompkins replaces Ronnie Gray who resigned recently to enter private business.

JIM THRIFFILEY

CHUCK YARBOROUGH

Thriffiley, Yarborough named Merit Finalists

Brother Celestine Algero, principal of St. Stanislaus High School, has announced that two seniors at St. Stanislaus have been named as National Merit Finalists for the 1984-85 school session.

They are Jim Thriffiley and Chuck Yarborough. Merit finalists are among the highest scorers in each state on the 1984 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test and the National Merit Scholarship Test (PSAT/NMSQT) which was administered to over one million students throughout the United States.

The finalists are distinguished as a select group who represent fewer than half of one percent of American high school seniors.

Yarborough, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Yarborough of Pass Christian, is presently in his sixth year at St. Stanislaus.

He is an alpha honor roll student and a member of the Spanish Honor Society, the National Honor Society, the yearbook staff, and the math and science team. He merited the President's Honor Roll in his junior year.

Yarborough is president of the student body at SSC, and he participates in varsity football and track. He made the Gulf Coast All-Catholic football team and is team captain of the varsity football team. He scored in the top 10 percent in the state in biology as a junior at the Math and Science Tournament in Clinton.

He is a member of Project Do, a service organization, and takes part in intramural swimming and soccer.

Thriffiley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Thriffiley III of Bay St. Louis, is also in his sixth year at St. Stanislaus.

He is a member of the National Honor Society, the Spanish Honor Society, the Computer Team and he serves as SSC student representative on the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Thriffiley has been on the President's Honor Roll throughout high school with a perfect 4.0 average; he is captain of the Science and Mathematics Tournament Team and has earned awards in every competition; and he attended Mississippi Boys' State where he was elected mayor of his city.

He is a member of the varsity track and football team; he was selected to the Mississippi Gulf Coast All-Catholic Football Team; and he won first place in the Hancock Powerlifting Meet.

Thriffiley, the Star Student for 1984-85 at SSC, plans to study engineering and pre-medicine in college.

Annunciation offers kindergarten

Annunciation School will have a pre-kindergarten and kindergarten program for the 1985-86 school year.

Pre-kindergarten is open to students age four by Sept. 1, 1985 and for five-year-olds who will not reach age five before Sept. 1, 1985.

Kindergarten students must be five years old on or before Sept. 1, 1985.

These will be all day sessions.

Registration continues today and Friday.

Students may register at Annunciation School office any time between 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday during school hours. Bring the child's certified birth certificate and baptismal certificate.

A fee of $40 per student is required at the time of registration. Tuition will be $65 per month beginning August.

Masson to perform

Gabriel Masson of Waveland will perform in the Spring Dance Concert, March 28-30, in the Performing Arts Center at the University of Southern Mississippi.

A total of 10 pieces involving more than 20 dancers will be presented. Original choreographic works for the Spring Dance Concert were contributed by five faculty members in the Department of Theatre and Dance at USM.

Tickets are $1.50 for students and $2.50 for general admission. For tickets call 266-4161.

Your Stars Above

BY EVE EWING

ARIES (3-21/4-19) Beware of trying to keep up with the Jones'. It can be an unending rat race because there will always be some other Jones out there to chase after.

TAURUS (4-20/5-20) Hanging on to a dead romance only makes one look foolish. There are other fish in the sea and you'd be much better off to cast your net after them.

GEMINI (5-21/6-20) You've made a big mistake, so don't sit around expecting everybody's sympathy. Cut your losses and start anew. Use a little better judgment next time around.

CANCER (6-21/7-22) An exciting job offer comes from across the continent. Remember that the job isn't the only thing new, but friends, climate, lifestyle. Be sure you are ready for a total change, or pass it up.

LEO (7-23/8-22) Thrift is not your best suit, and you would be smart to place your financial affairs in the hands of an expert to avoid lots of grief. But you don't take advice well either.

VIRGO (8-23/9-22) Spare the rod and spoil the child needn't mean a literal beating, but a very firm hand is in order for that certain young person. Ignore the tears and tantrums, and assert your rights.

LIBRA (9-23/10-22) Pride is keeping two stubborn people apart. Try to find some common meeting ground and overcome a silly misunderstanding. Good friends are not to be thrown away lightly.

SCORPIO (10-23/11-21) If you continue to play your cards close to the vest, then be prepared for constant misunderstanding from others. Weigh the consequences and consider new tactics.

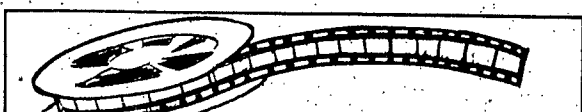

SAGITTARIUS (11-22/12-21) You feel a close friend is falling into the clutches of a bogus cult leader and think you are helpless to stop it. Try sweet reason and lots of patience. Don't preach!

CAPRICORN (12-22/1-19) You aren't the first, nor will you be the last to suffer a blighted romance. Locking yourself away from all human contact is wrong. Get back in the swing of things right away.

AQUARIUS (1-20/2-18) Juggling two romances at once will likely result in no romance at all. Be honest with both parties. They can forgive that a lot faster than being played for fools.

PISCES (2-19/3-20) Now is the time to change your lifestyle, seek a more rewarding field and stimulating pastimes. Do it before you are burdened with responsibilities that tie one down.
